Many Offers of Aid

The government has already mustered 1.000 motor lorrises for the transport for the transport food, and is by no means at the end of its resources in that direction. Offers of voluntary and, as drivers and in other capacities, it is officially stated, are coming from all over the country, amounting to a quarter of a million. Many of the volunteers are exceeded and previously worked in the government transport service.

Premier Lloyd George, telegraphing his tegrets that he would be unable to attend the soldiers' celebration at Carmaryon, said:

"In a long and varied experience I the capacity of the country and the soldiers' celebration and and stated the soldiers' celebration and country and the country, amounting to a quarter of a million. Describing the government's terms as stated by Sir Robert Stevenson Horne, Minister of Labor, yesterday as generous, the Fremier says:

"The dispute, such as it is, is about something which cannot possibly come."

In the beginning of the war, and also to the great reduction in the hours of labor. They intend to meet this blow at the public weal with all the resources at the disposal of the state, and they look to the nation, without distinction of class, for it affects everybody, cheerfully to bear the privations which will result from this indefensible strike, and give their aid to maintaining the fabric of social order upon which the prospersity of this sountry depends."

In the beginning of his message Mr. Lloyd George said:
"I have been constantly criticised as ndicative that the government was come. Better a visible perit than a constant mist of menace.

mediate summoning of Parliament, and there are some indications this will be done it is contended the nation does not know the full story and that only searching debates in the House of Commons will reveal it.

All shades of epinion in the London press, except the Laborite "Herali," condemn the National Union of Rail-waymen, the action of which in declaring a strike is declared as a "wanton war on succept and an attempt to starve the country into submission." The newspapers appeal to the people to support the government in a finish fight.

"The Daily News" which is always sympathetic to labor, says "there was food policy.

He intimated the hostoit threatened to become more dancerous than the blockade, saying it would continue unless the first government made a definite declaration with respect to its sympathetic to labor, says "there was food policy.
